

The Magic of Mentoring

Introduction of Dr. Paul Schempp

[PLEASE READ SLOWLY]

We can all recall at least one person who has made a difference in our lives—an individual who willingly shared the wisdom won struggles we call experience; an individual who was committed to our success as much or more as we were.

And perhaps now it is our time to repay the debt and offer our wisdom, experiences, and most importantly our commitments in building a better future for those who will follow us. Perhaps we are now, or soon will be, someone's mentor. In taking up that responsibility,

What is it we need to do?

How do we establish healthy, productive relationships with mentors and mentees?

And what skills and knowledge do good mentors use to make a difference in the personal and professional lives of their mentees?

Our speaker today has been studying those questions for over a decade, and he is here today to share the answers he has discovered.
